Grant Recognition and Publication Guidelines

Purpose

The Frost Foundation does not require or actively seek public recognition of its grantmaking. When an organization chooses to acknowledge the Foundation's support, we ask that it be done in keeping with these guidelines.

Acknowledging Foundation Support

Grantees are welcome to acknowledge the Frost Foundation's support publicly, and our name may be used for that purpose. Please refer to us as without abbreviation or modification, unless agreed to in advance. References should be limited to the Foundation itself. Please do not name, quote, or reference individual board members, officers, employees, or family members without our prior written approval.

The Frost Foundation

High-resolution versions of the Frost Foundation logo are available at https://www.frostfoundation.org/publishing-guidelines

Accuracy

Any statement describing the Foundation's support should accurately reflect the amount and purpose of the grant, the activities it funded, and the relevant award dates. The Frost Foundation should not be represented as endorsing an organization, product, service, political position, or advocacy campaign unless we've expressly authorized it in writing.

Our Use of Materials You Share

Unless otherwise requested, the Frost Foundation reserves the right to reference publicly available information, photographs provided by the grantee, and project descriptions in its own reports, presentations, and other communications regarding its grantmaking activities.

Questions

If you have questions about these guidelines or a proposed publication, please contact us.